

New Teacher Spotlight- Ms. Suzanne Rixon

Staff Writer

Welcome Ms. Rixon to the Stamford High math department. She has finally seen the light and transferred here from arch-enemy Trinity Catholic after two years! Ms. Rixon is one of two new math teachers and could not be happier than to be at Stamford High.

A native of Middletown, she has been taught for three years and says Stamford High is her biggest school. Ms. Rixon received her undergraduate degree from the University of Rhode Island in accounting and then received her Masters in education from the University of New Haven.

She has a very positive outlook on Stamford High thus far and says that she likes the big school; however, it is very easy to get lost. Ms. Rixon loves the math department and is teaching Algebra 1, Academic Algebra, and Algebra 2. Find her in room #927 and feel free to stop by and give Ms. Rixon a warm Stamford High welcome.
